HUNT THREE CONVICTS IN FIELDS NEAR CIRCLEVILLE

CLEAR WAY TO LET CONTRACT IN SIX WEEKS

BELIEVE TRIO IS IN HIDING EAST OF CITY

Deputy Sheriffs Lead Search
For Escaped Penitentiary Prisoners.

(BULLETIN)
Dan Bonzo, penitentiary clerk, and J. C. Woodard, guard, heavily armed, arrived in Circleville at 2:30 p. m. Thursday to join in the hunt for the three escaped convicts believed hiding east of the city. They were ordered to Circleville after The Herald had provided Warden Thomas with a description of the men.

Three men, believed to be Ohio penitentiary convicts who escaped Tuesday from the state brick plant at Junction City, are believed to be cornered in a wheat field or an adjacent woods a mile east of Circleville on the Lancaster pike.

Deputy Sheriffs John Ward, Jr., Carl Porter and Miller Fissell, assisted by Morris Boggs and farmers in that vicinity, were patrolling the roads and searching the fields Thursday afternoon. Guards from Ohio penitentiary are momentarily expected to arrive to join in the hunt.

The men are believed to be the three who made a successful dash for liberty from the Junction City brick plant after a fourth had been shot down by guards. The escaped men are:

Henry Scharr, 19, Cleveland, serving two to seven years for receiving stolen property.

Raymond Crooks, 31, Toledo, serving one to 15 years for burglary and larceny.

Clarence Ragland, 24, Toledo, serving two to 12 years for auto-bomb stealing.

CHASED BY DOG
The three fugitives, who are said to be hiding in the knee high grain, were first seen at 6 a. m. Thursday when Mrs. William Robinson, living immediately east of the Marion Brothers greenhouse, went to Hargus creek to dispose of some tin cans.

When she threw the refuse over the bank at the foot of two large trees, three men sprang up. A large white bull dog, which accompanied Mrs. Robinson, chased the men, who had been eating. The dog didn't catch the men but it did obtain a large piece of bologna which one of them dropped.

Two of the men ran east up Hargus creek and the third ran down where the stream crosses the Lancaster pike. Both of the men who ran east wore dark gray trousers with stripes on the sides. One of them was naked above the waist and the other wore a black shirt. The third man, who went to the bridge, was dressed in work pants and wore a white shirt and white hat. His clothing was too large for him, Mrs. Robinson said.

HOME IS WATCHED
This third man went to the bridge where he stayed, watching the Robinson home. When he saw Mrs. Robinson go to the home of W. G. Richards, where there was a telephone, the man tried unsuccessfully to stop the automobile of Dr. E. L. Price, of Circleville. When he failed, he ran east down the Lancaster pike and disappeared in one of the wheat fields north of the highway.

Richards telephoned the sheriff's office and the three deputies started their search. Shortly after noon, a motorist saw a man raise up out of a wheat field and then dodge back. When he went to investigate, having heard of the search, he could not find anyone in that vicinity.

It is believed the men are crawling about the grain fields, possibly attempting to gain the shelter of nearby woods.

JURY ORDERS DEATH CHAIR

Portsmouth Slayer of Mother-in-Law Guilty of First Degree Murder.

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 6.—A 50-year-old man, who shot and killed the mother of his 17-year-old bride, his seventh wife, today had been found guilty of that crime and is in jail here awaiting imposition of the mandatory sentence of death in the electric chair.

In returning its verdict after deliberating more than four hours, the jury found the aged husband of the young wife guilty of first degree murder, without recommendation for mercy.

Ohio law decrees that a death sentence is mandatory when a jury returns that verdict.

The man, who is awaiting the sentence to "ride the thunderbolt into eternity's oblivion," is Joseph Locke, 50.

He was convicted of slaying Mrs. Mary Galloway, the mother of his 17-year-old wife, Lucy. The young girl was his seventh bride. The jury disregarded the man's plea of transitory insanity which was based on his belief that a man is not entirely sane when he is in "love."

MRS. HINSON CUTS THROAT TO END LIFE

Wife of Walnut-Twp Farmer
Also Drinks Poison Early Thursday Morning.

Mrs. Dorothy B. Hinson, 47, wife of Frank Hinson, widely known Walnut-twp farmer, ended her life early Thursday morning at her home near Ringgold by slashing her throat with a razor after drinking a mixture of Paris green and water.

The tragedy occurred after Mrs. Hinson arose at 4:30 o'clock, her usual hour, and prepared breakfast for her husband and their three children, Howard, Florence and Wayne Hinson. While they were seated at the breakfast table she left the house and did not return.

Following his custom, Mr. Hinson, after breakfast, went to the corn crib for grain to feed his hogs. There he found his wife, still breathing, with her throat slashed from ear to ear so that her head was nearly severed from her body.

DRANK POISON FIRST
He summoned Drs. C. A. and Addison Kefauver, of Stoutsville, the family physicians, but Mrs. Hinson was dead before they arrived. Dr. C. E. Bowers, county coroner, was called and viewed the body.

It was found that Mrs. Hinson had first taken a mixture of Paris green and water, after which she cut her throat by making five successive slashes which penetrated to her spinal column. A razor was found by her side and another, apparently sharpened on a stone, was found under her when her body was removed.

Despondency over ill health is believed responsible for her act. Last Tuesday she visited a specialist in Columbus and it is believed she had been brooding over his report.

BORN IN CIRCLEVILLE

Mrs. Hinson was born in Circleville on Dec. 20, 1881, the daughter of John and Sarah Huber Hook. She is survived by her husband, three children and her mother, the latter residing in Stoutsville. She was a member of the Cedar Hill Evangelical church.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday at the home, the Rev. W. D. Ramsey officiating, with burial in Maple Hill cemetery, Stoutsville, in charge of H. E. Defenbaugh and son.

She awakened members of the household, and Mr. Rader rushed downstairs and out to a shed where he discovered that his new Ford was ablaze.

He pushed the machine out in the drive, but not before it was completely destroyed, nor before the fire had started in the roof of the shed. This blaze was put out by water by members of the family who carried water from the well.

Mary Reveal, who discovered the fire was the guest of Graciele Rader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rader. It was not certain what caused the fire. The damage to the roof of the shed was covered by insurance with the Great American Co. of which T. P. Brown is local agent.

SPEED LIMITS ARE ELASTIC

Interesting Decision Rendered
In Traffic Case By Su-preme Court.

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Has Ohio a speed limit?

No! Yes! It has and it hasn't. As paradoxical as the foregoing statements seem, they are correct.

The authority of the declarations are based on a decision of the Ohio Supreme court, which is reason enough for any article.

In a ruling handed down yesterday, which was the subject of much and varied discussion today, the highest court in the Buckeye State, freed a motorist who admittedly exceeded the speed limit of 25 miles an hour in the city of Lakewood, near Cleveland.

But, (there's always an exception in such cases) the man claimed he had a "clear" road, good pavement and wide highway.

The Supreme court freed him. The decision may revolutionize the enforcement of speed limits in the state and it will do away with many speed traps.

It renders the ordinances of Ohio municipalities fixing arbitrary maximum speed limits inoperative.

It called attention to the fact that under state law, with which municipal ordinances must conform, an autost must exceed the speed limits, and yet not be guilty of an offense, depending on the width, traffic, use and general and usual rules of the highway.

CAPTURE 2 OF FIVE BANDITS

Citizens Posse Surround Escaped Trio After Daring Bank Robbery.

SOMERSET, Pa., June 6.—Two bandits were captured and three others of a bandit gang of five who staged a daylight holdup of the Central City National bank today are believed surrounded in the sparsely settled countryside by a posse of farmers and citizens near here this afternoon.

The capture of the members of the gang still at liberty was believed to be only a matter of an hour or two, according to members of the posse who, armed with rifles, shotguns and nondescript weapons, tracked the bandits from the bank at Central City to this place.

Phone calls for aid in capturing the men, described as swarthy, were rushed to the sheriff's office at Somerset.

Amount of the loot obtained by the men from the bank was not ascertained.

The five men were reported to have secreted themselves in the bank building over night and lay in wait for the bank's employees to open the doors this morning.

Montclair Co. Will Donate
Small Plot of Ground To
Myers Site.

Awarding of the contract to construct Circleville's municipal hospital on the Myers' tract on N. Pickaway-st by July 15, became possible Wednesday night when the city council approved the plans and specifications for the hospital, which was prepared by Robert S. Harsh and associated, of Columbus.

The plans, which are virtually complete, had been approved previously by the hospital board. They call for a building, T shaped, all one story except in the center of the front which will be two stories, the second floor providing the nurses' quarters. The entire lower floor will be devoted to hospital purposes.

The hospital is planned to contain 25 beds. There will be a pair of two-bed wards and two four-bed wards. The hospital will contain an emergency operating room, a regular operating room, X-ray room and clinic room. It will have unit operation and is designed that when additional are necessary, they can be made without any interference with the unit units.

ADVERTISE FOR BIDS

The construction contract is now being advertised for bids, which must be in the hands of the hospital board by July 2. The contract probably will be awarded within the next 10 days after that date.

The city council, which would be the city's little triangular place in land in front of the hospital grounds, providing the city would provide the necessary description for it. City Engineer Harry Al-kire was authorized to provide the description of the plot.

At the request of Robert Miller, member of the hospital board, counsel instructed Service Director L. E. Miller to have the Water Co. extend its water main on N. Pickaway-st so that a fire hydrant could be placed in front of the hospital. Director Miller was also instructed to provide for the extension of gas and electric service to the hospital.

A resolution accepting the request to the hospital in the Frank P. Berger will was read as the request had to be accepted within two years. Councilman Clark will reported that the finance committee had sold $5000 of the notes authorized for the hospital.

Plans for a sanitary sewer on Logan, Washington and Town-st, estimated to cost $6,988, were approved by council which instructed City Solicitor Paul Adkins to prepare an ordinance of necessity for the construction of the sewer and to have it ready for the next meeting of council.

An ordinance changing the amount of the salaries to be paid to the clerk of council and to the city treasurer was read for the first time. The ordinance is designed to make more equitable the salaries of these two officers in consideration of their duties. Clerk of council now receives $340 a year and city treasurer receives $400. The new ordinance provides that the clerk of council, who has many duties in connection with his office, shall be raised to $300 a year, and the city treasurer shall be cut to $300 a year.

ORDINANCE HELD UP
Because funds are not available now for the employment of two additional men for the city fire department, the ordinance providing for their employment was referred to the committee on ordinances when it came up for its third reading Wednesday night. It will be reported out of the committee for the third reading when the money for the additional salaries is available, which is expected to be within two months. Mayor E. T. Hodges reported the collection of $170 in fines and licenses during the month of May.

On the motion of Councilman Maron Service Director Miller was authorized to lease the third floor of the city hall to the Independent Order of Red Men for lodge purposes. A representative of the Seagrave Co., Columbus, from whom the city is now renting a pump, attended council meeting and explained the pumping engine built by his firm for fire fighting purposes.

CLOCK RUNS FOR 6 YEARS, NO WINDING

LANCASTER, June 6.—Police investigating a reported robbery at the old Denman homestead, one of Lancaster's historic residences, once occupied by James G. Blaine, but uninhabited since the death six years ago of John Denman, found a gold self-winding clock, started by Mr. Denman, was still running.

The furnishings of the home, undisturbed since the death of the last resident, were not molested by those who entered the house.

CAPTURE 2 OF FIVE BANDITS

Citizens Posse Surround Escaped
Trio After Daring
Bank Robbery.

SOMERSET, Pa., June 6.—Two bandits were captured and three others of a bandit gang of five who staged a daylight holdup of the Central City National bank today are believed surrounded in the sparsely settled countryside by a posse of farmers and citizens near here this afternoon.

The capture of the members of the gang still at liberty was believed to be only a matter of an hour or two, according to members of the posse who, armed with rifles, shotguns and nondescript weapons, tracked the bandits from the bank at Central City to this place.

Phone calls for aid in capturing the men, described as swarthy, were rushed to the sheriff's office at Somerset.

Amount of the loot obtained by the men from the bank was not ascertained.

The five men were reported to have secreted themselves in the bank building over night and lay in wait for the bank's employees to open the doors this morning.

BICYCLE STOLEN

The bicycle of Harry Kochen-sperger and a rear tire from the bicycle of Raymond Welch were stolen from in front of the Western Union office Wednesday, according to a report made to the local police.

Montclair Co. Will Donate
Small Plot of Ground To
Myers Site.

Awarding of the contract to construct Circleville's municipal hospital on the Myers' tract on N. Pickaway-st by July 15, became possible Wednesday night when the city council approved the plans and specifications for the hospital, which was prepared by Robert S. Harsh and associates, of Columbus.

The plans, which are virtually complete, had been approved previously by the hospital board. They call for a building, T shaped, all one story except in the center of the front which will be two stories, the second floor providing the nurses' quarters. The entire lower floor will be devoted to hospital purposes.

The hospital is planned to contain 25 beds. There will be a pair of two-bed wards and two four-bed wards. The hospital will contain an emergency operating room, a regular operating room, X-Ray room and clinic room. It will have unit operation and is so designed that when additions are necessary, they can be made without any interference with the first units.

ADVERTISE FOR BIDS

The construction contract is now being advertised for bids, which must be in the hands of the hospital board by July 3. The contract probably will be awarded within the next 10 days after that date.

The Montclair Co., informed council that it would donate to the city a little triangular piece of land in front of the hospital grounds, providing the city would provide the necessary description for it. City Engineer Harry Alkire was authorized to provide the description of the plot.

At the request of Robert Brehmer of the hospital board, council instructed Service Director L. E. Miller to have the Water Co. extend its water main on N. Pickaway-st so that a fire hydrant could be placed in front of the hospital. Director Miller was also instructed to provide for the extension of gas and electric service to the hospital.

REQUEST ACCEPTED

A resolution accepting the bequest to the hospital in the Frank P. Berger will was read as the bequest had to be accepted within two years. Councilman Clark will reported that the finance committee had sold $5000 of the notes authorized for the hospital.

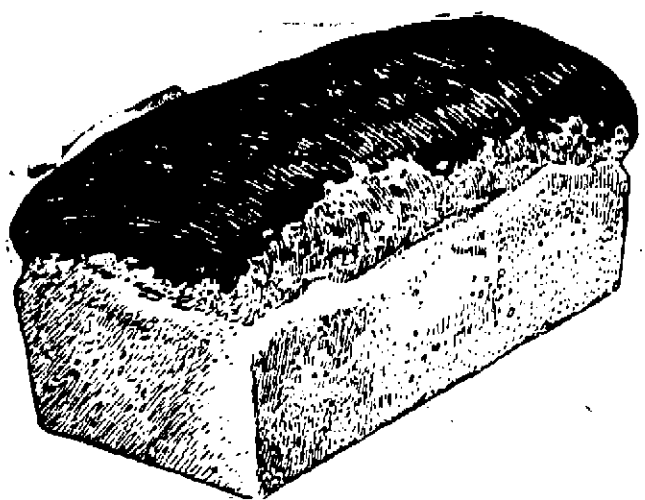

Plans for a sanitary sewer on Logan, Washington and Town-sts, estimated to cost $6,988, were approved by council which instructed City Solicitor Paul Adkins to prepare an ordinance of necessity for the construction of the sewer and to have it ready for the next meeting of council.

An ordinance changing the amount of the salaries to be paid to the clerk of council and to the city treasurer was read for the first time. The ordinance is designed to make more equitable the salaries of these two officers in consideration of their duties. Clerk of council now receives $240 a year and city treasurer receives $400. The new ordinance provides that the clerk of council, who has many duties in connection with his office, shall be raised to $360 a year, and the city treasurer shall be out to $300 a year.

ORDINANCE HELD UP

Because funds are not available now for the employment of two additional men for the city fire department, the ordinance providing for their employment was referred to the committee on ordinances when it came up for its third reading Wednesday night. It will be reported out of the committee for the third reading when the money for the additional salaries is available, which is expected to be within two months. Mayor B. T. Hodges reported the collection of $170.10 in fines and licenses during the month of May.

On the motion of Councilman Marion, Service Director Miller was authorized to lease the third floor of the city hall to the Independent Order of Red Men for lodge purposes. A representative of the Seagrave Co., Columbus, from whom the city is now renting a pumper, attended council meeting and explained the pumping engine built by his firm for fire fighting purposes.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO FORMAL OPENING OF NEW DINING ROOM

Denny Pickens' Remodeled Restaurant Has Buffet Lunch Counter—Waitresses To Serve Patrons—Souvenirs Will Be Given To Visitors Friday Night—Smart Looking Interior.

With the formal opening Friday night from 8 to 10 o'clock of the redecorated Palace restaurant, Circleville will have a new restaurant specializing in the buffet lunch counter with a new quiet dining room at the rear where excellent week-day meals, and Sunday dinners will be served.

The entire establishment has been repainted in colors, and the smart looking wicker and leather stools with backs, at the counter, lend a city air to the front room of the restaurant.

Denny Pickens, who has been in the business for more than 25 years, is well qualified to manage this new place to eat, and his name will add much to the success of the restaurant.

The Palace will be open from 5 a. m. until midnight every day.

The dining room and spacious kitchens are all on one floor, with a seating capacity of 100 at the tables and 20 at the counters.

There will be a day and a night cook, with short orders at any time.

The kitchens are large and airy, and the stock room is piled high with merchandise bought by one who knows what customers will be wanting.

The dining room will also be rented out for private dinners, card parties, and banquets.

During the two hours of the opening on Friday night, patrons will be entertained by music from the Atwater Kent radio, furnished by the Pettit Tire shop.

Visitors on that night will receive souvenirs—roses to the women and cigars to the men in true Pickens hospitality.

The restaurant will fill a long felt want of Circleville where residents may go and order a meal or buffet lunch at any hour.

The restaurant shows

promise of being one of the popular eating places in town. An efficient corps of waitresses will serve the patrons.

MANY CHANGES AT 'PALACE'

Circleville Firms Aid In Remodeling and Redecorating Restaurant.

The Palace restaurant, after over 25 years with the same surroundings, has been remodeled and redecorated into an up-to-date restaurant by its present owner, Denny Pickens.

The visitors who attend the formal opening on Friday evening will be surprised at the wonderful change that has taken place in the old stand.

A number of local concerns have taken a part in completing this work and getting it ready for the opening.

One of the first things that will be noticed is the unique color combination and refinishing on the old chairs and tables that have been used there for many days. The Circleville Motors Co. paint department is responsible for this change.

The linoleum and the draperies came from Jeffries & Colville. These two items add much to the beauty of the place.

All electrical fixtures and wiring were installed by the Fissell Electric Co. The lighting arrangement adds to the brightness, as it should.

Charles Cook and Sons had charge of all carpentry work in remodeling to give the Palace its present convenient arrangement.

All foods are kept in cold storage to assume their original flavor and Fritz "Golden Crust" bread is served exclusively by Mr. Pickens.

While the Palace is a good place to keep cool you will always find "Furnas" ice creams a pleasing dessert on account of its quality.

CLOSE BATTLE BEING FOUGHT IN NATIONAL

Only Three and Half Games Separate First and Fourth Places.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Only 3½ games separate the league-leading Pirates from the fourth-place Giants in the National league scramble today, providing a four-cornered race close enough to make the turnstiles click merrily for many weeks to come. The Giants, who are furnishing most of the fireworks at present, knocked the Cardinals out of the lead yesterday while Pittsburgh was idle.

The same old gang is setting the pace in the Heydler circuit and indications are fast growing that the American league campaign will be another two-horse race between Philadelphia and New York, the Yanks, off on another tear against the Western clubs, won their fifth straight yesterday and took second place from the Browns, who were unable to stop the Athletics. The latter have yet to lose two games in succession this year.

The Yanks, with Ruth, Meusel, Koenig and Lary out of the regular lineup, have not made an error nor lost a game since the club was shaken up, and not a single pitcher has been knocked out. They nosed out Cleveland in the 12th yesterday, 6 to 5.

MACKS WIN AGAIN
With his mates piling up a comfortable lead off Crowder, Rube Walberg of the Mackian machine held the Browns to four hits and won 5 to 2. Cochrane and Miller hit homers for the A's and Kress and Melillo ditted for the Browns.

Master Melvin Ott's 12th homer of the season, coming with two on base, featured New York's 6 to 4 win over the Cardinals. Chick Hafey starred for the Cards with three hits, including his 13th homer.

Buzz McWeeny of Brooklyn, blanked the Cubs for eight innings but blew up in the ninth when the veteran Bancroft messed up two chances for double plays. A pinch hit by Gabby Hartnett gave Chicago a 4 to 3 edge.

REDS CAME TO LIFE
Both tailenders, the Reds and the Red Sox, stepped out of character to put on a batting carnival. Scoring nine runs in the sixth, Cincinnati overwhelmed the Phillies, 21 to 4. Klein, the Phil's fence huster, kept the lead in the home run derby by cracking out No. 14. Cincinnati's 21 runs set a new high scoring total for the year in the National league.

In Boston's 17 to 2 slaughter of the White Sox, the Red Sox collected 23 hits for 39 bases and made nine consecutive hits in the eighth after two were out, scoring eight runs. Each Boston player hit safely and the situation became so desperate in the eighth that Manager Lena Blackburne, a former infielder, went to the mound for Chicago.

Firpo Marberry of Washington, who used to work for Bucky Harris, held Bucky's Tigers to five hits and beat them 8 to 2.

THE MASHIE PITCH SHOULD BE PLAYED OFF THE RIGHT FOOT TO INSURE A LONG FOLLOW THROUGH

MASHIE PITCH REQUIRES LONG FOLLOW THROUGH

IN MAKING a mashie pitch it is quite necessary for the club to pick up the ball, not scoop it. This can always be done by a long follow through. If the ball is played off the left foot there is a great chance of topping it. If it is played off the right foot there is more room for the follow through and better control will be obtained. This is not what would be called the back spin shot. In this case the club hits the ball just a little before the center on the down swing knocking the legs out from under it and causing it to spin backwards. (© 1929, Bell Syndicate.)

MASHIE PITCH REQUIRES LONG FOLLOW THROUGH

IN MAKING a mashie pitch it is quite necessary for the club to pick up the ball, not scoop it. This can always be done by a long follow through. If the ball is played off the left foot there is a great chance of topping it. If it is played off the right foot there is more room for the follow through and better control will be obtained.
 This is not what would be called the back spin shot. In this case the club hits the ball just a little before the center on the down swing knocking the legs out from under it and causing it to spin backwards.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO FORMAL OPENING OF NEW DINING ROOM

Denny Pickens' Remodeled Restaurant Has Buffet Lunch Counter—Waitresses To Serve Patrons—Souvenirs Will Be Given To Visitors Friday Night—Smart Looking Interior.

With the formal opening Friday night from 8 to 10 o'clock of the redecorated Palace restaurant, Circleville will have a new restaurant specializing in the buffet lunch counter with a new quiet dining room at the rear where excellent week-day meals, and Sunday dinners will be served. The entire establishment has been repainted in colors, and the smart looking wicker and leather stools with backs, at the counter, lend a city air to the front room of the restaurant.

Denny Pickens, who has been in the business for more than 25 years, is well qualified to manage this new place to eat, and his name will add much to the success of the restaurant.

The Palace will be open from 5 a. m. until midnight every day.

The dining room and spacious kitchens are all on one floor, with a seating capacity of 100 at the tables and 20 at the counters.

There will be a day and a night cook, with short orders at any time.

The kitchens are large and airy, and the stock room is piled high with merchandise bought by one who knows what customers will be wanting.

The dining room will also be rented out for private dinners, card parties, and banquets.

During the two hours of the opening on Friday night, patrons will be entertained by music from the Atwater Kent radio, furnished by the Pettit Tire shop.

Visitors on that night will receive souvenirs—roses to the women and cigars to the men in true Pickens hospitality.

The restaurant will fill a long felt want of Circleville where residents may go and order a meal or buffet lunch at any hour.

The restaurant shows

promise of being one of the popular eating places in town. An efficient corps of waitresses will serve the patrons.

MANY CHANGES AT 'PALACE'

Circleville Firms Aid In Remodeling and Redecorating Restaurant.

The Palace restaurant, after over 25 years with the same surroundings, has been remodeled and re-decorated into an up-to-date restaurant by its present owner, Denny Pickens.

The visitors who attend the formal opening on Friday evening will be surprised at the wonderful change that has taken place in the old stand.

A number of local concerns have taken a part in completing this work and getting it ready for the opening.

One of the first things that will be noticed is the unique color combination and refinishing on the old chairs and tables that have been used there for many days. The Circleville Motors Co. paint department is responsible for this change.

The linoleum and the draperies came from Jeffries & Colville. These two items add much to the beauty of the place.

All electrical fixtures and wiring were installed by the Fissell Electric Co. The lighting arrangement adds to the brightness, as it should.

Charles Cook and Sons had charge of all carpentry work in remodeling to give the Palace its present convenient arrangement.

All foods are kept in cold storage to assure their original flavor and Fritz "Golden Crust" bread is served exclusively by Mr. Pickens.

While the Palace is a good place to keep cool you will always find "Furnas" ice creams a pleasing dessert on account of its quality.

GREAT FILTERS OF THE BLOOD STREAM
Most Important that the Kidneys Function Properly Says Dr. Copeland, for They Dissolve and Expel Poisonous Material from the Body.
By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
YOU cannot imagine that a stream flowing a long distance through field and forest could do otherwise than pick up leaves and twigs, bits of plants, and all sorts of rubbish. More than this, it dissolves from the soil particles of every soluble substance. The blood stream does the same thing. As it flows through the body it dissolves this and that material. It takes up many elements, really waste substances, no longer of value to the tissues. Some of these are chemical agents and they may combine in the blood to form new substances. It is not well to have the blood charged with agents which are not useful and which, indeed, may become harmful. To get rid of all such material, Nature planned the kidneys. These organs, two in number, have an important, a vital function to perform. It is their duty to filter out of the blood this waste material. In reality the kidney is a wonderful filter, or rather a bundle of microscopic filters. They are tiny tubes, each about an inch long to take the ashes and clinker away from the furnaces. It is amazing how many of these little tubes there are—about four million equally divided between the kidneys. It is said that if they were straightened out and placed end to end they would make a pipe line fully seventy-five miles long! Perhaps it is impossible even to approximate the quantity of solid material taken out of the body by these filters. It is estimated that in an ounce a day or nearly a ton in a long lifetime. Not all the material we take with our food is actually used by the body. Some of it is unabsorbable and is rejected as fecal matter. More of it is made use of and becoming worthless, is thrown into the blood stream. You can see that the blood serves a double purpose—if it carries nourishment to the body and also disposes of the wastes. A river may carry out charges to supply a great factory with fuel. Likewise the blood serves the same purpose. The arrangement is not quite so simple as this, but there is no occasion to go into a lot of detail. The blood must be kept pure. It must be cleansed of the waste in order that it may be free to convey to the eager cells the food required for their nourishment and the energy producing substances to carry on their work. The most important of the waste substances is known as urea. This is carried away with the urine unless something interferes with the kidney function. In that event the urea accumulates in the blood, producing the condition known as "uremia." There may be convulsions and other serious symptoms the effects of general poisoning caused by the retained urea. You can see how important it really is to have the kidneys work normally. So long as they do, there is no trouble about having the poisons due to tissue changes properly expelled from the body.

DR. COPELAND.

New Ideas
Considering the struggle each new idea has to pass through, it is a wonder there is progress. Every new idea has to go through this haze of criticism. First, it is said that the idea is "absolutely impossible." Later it is said the idea is all right, except that it will never become practicable. Finally it is said the idea has gained considerable ground, but that it will take time to develop it. About fifty years later the critic reverses himself, and says: "Years ago I said it was a great idea." The big liar! —Atchison Globe.

O'FALLON DECISION EFFECT

One question that is bound to figure largely in politics is the decision of the U. S. supreme court on the famous St. Louis and O'Fallon railroad case. According to the view of many, this decision leaves the railroad companies in a position where they could claim large advances in rates, unless Congress shall enact some new law.

For those who have not followed this complicated case, it can be said that the court took the position that railroad valuations must consider to some extent the cost of reproducing a railroad property if it had to be built anew. That is, if a railroad cost $10,000,000, but it would cost $20,000,000 to reconstruct it today, then that fact must be given some weight, though that is only one of a number of factors.

This principle affects the ordinary person, since in making rates, the interstate commerce commission must consider what the property being used for transportation is worth. Manifestly, if $10,000,000 was allowed as the value of such property, where it is really worth $20,000,000 then such a railroad would be in a position to claim higher rates.

These considerations, however, seem to be more theoretical than practical. It is not at all likely that the railroads will move for generally higher rates. They would feel that this would create public hostility and lead to unfriendly legislation, and also such rates would increase truck and bus competition, which is already hurting railroad revenues.

There is then no apparent reason why the public need worry about this decision at present. Much will depend upon the railroad companies. If they take a reasonable attitude, there may not be any powerful demand for more restrictive legislation. But public sentiment here in Ohio would not tolerate any general advance in rates.

Junior Did Not Quite

Get Mother's Explaining
Junior was called upon to explain to his dad why he had evidently told the child next door such a seemingly patent untruth.

"Junior, haven't you been taught that to be guilty of prevarication is sufficient reason for your being punished severely?"

"The Scrooler (who is an uncle of the youngster) noted with some amusement that the weight of the large words used upon the lad was having little effect.

"What did I do wrong, daddy?" the child asked.

"Didn't you tell Howard that mother owned a station and that you think she's going to give it to you full of trains?"

"Sure, daddy," replied the youngster. "I heard mother tell Mrs. Jones that the lady who just moved in was below her station and that she couldn't join the bridge club." Daddy, if mother had a station, wouldn't she give me some trains?"

A Little Delayed

Nancy, who was only five, was much impressed when a large bunch of roses arrived for her mother.

"Why did you get them, mother?" she asked.

"You see, Nancy, seven years ago today daddy and mother were married," explained the mother.

"Goodness! He was a long time sending them, wasn't he? You'd think he'd have sent them seven years ago."

FARM STOCK

MAKING PROGRESS WITH LIVE STOCK

First Essential Is First-Class Clover Pasture.

To make progress in developing a balanced system of farming where live stock is to have a rightful place, it is necessary to have a sufficient area planted to first-class pasture.

"Almost any land will produce some pasture," says S. J. Kirby, pasture specialist at the North Carolina State college. "But the more fertile the soil, the better pasture it will produce. Cut-over land, idle cleared land or land too rough or too steep for cleanly cultivated crops may be profitably used. Where the soil has been well cultivated, it may be easily prepared by disking or breaking and disking. All crop residues should be plowed under and the seed-bed left level. It is important to have a good seed bed for grass and clover plantings."

Mr. Kirby says also that pasture responds to good treatment. Lime and phosphate are beneficial to grasses and clovers and are necessary for animals. These may be supplied to the live stock through grazing. Throughout the Piedmont section, Mr. Kirby advises the use of one ton of limestone and from 300 to 500 pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 12-3-3 or a 12-4-4. The application of stable or barnyard manure as a top dresser the second or third year after the sod has been established in a good practice.

It is also practical to improve old pastures at low cost. Sometimes these areas may be reseeded; again top dressings with lime, fertilizer and manure may be necessary; but in any case, these treatments should be given so that the plant food materials might be incorporated into the soil by the alternate thawing and freezing of the ground.

Bloat Among Cattle or Sheep Can Be Avoided
Feeding cattle or sheep dry hay each morning and then turning them on clover pasture after the dew is off is one of the surest ways of preventing bloat during the first month of pasturing. The practice of leaving the animals on the clover only a short time is a sound one, especially so during the beginning of the pasture season. Under no circumstances should hungry animals be permitted to gorge on clover, alfalfa or sweet clover when the foliage is wet with dew or rain water. Generally prudence is also required in watering them soon after they have filled themselves with green food.

When a serious case of bloat does occur, tapping is by far the surest way of relieving the animal. The incision should be made on the left side at a point an equal distance from the last rib, the hip bone, and the sideways projecting portions of the backbone in the region of the loin. A trocar is the instrument intended for this job. Every farmer should have one if he is pasturing clover. The gas should not be allowed to escape too rapidly from badly bloated animals.

Oats Replace Corn for Hogs in Purdue Ration
Swine feeding results at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., show that oats in rations for swine should be limited to one-half the weight of the ration. More than this weight is not used economically and gains were slower.

The corn replacement value of the oats varies according to the amount of oats used. When one-fourth of the ration was oats, one bushel of oats replaced two-thirds of a bushel of corn. Where oats made up one-half the ration, a bushel of oats was equal to only one-half bushel of corn.

No Advantage in Mixed Ground Feed for Pigs
There is usually nothing to be gained by grinding corn for pigs. However, barley and oats both feed a little better to young pigs when they are ground. To simplify feeding, it would be all right to grind the corn along with the barley and oats. There is no particular advantage to be gained, however, by mixing this ground feed into a slop before feeding as it can just as well be fed dry so long as the pigs have water available most of the time.

Lambs Born Dead
Many lambs are born dead, prematurely because of crowding through doors and gates. Having once gained the confidence of your flock it is an easy matter to handle them efficiently, for if a ewe has lambed in the yard one can walk slowly out and pick up the lamb and the ewe will readily follow to the lambing pens. Take care that the ewe knows you have the lamb, holding him by the forelegs and lifting the ewe to smell him at intervals en route.

Caring for Sow
The sow, while carrying her young, will do best on the quality of feed she would do best on were she not with pig. If the sow during her periods of pregnancy is allowed her freedom in a large pasture lot where she can exercise, she will not as a rule experience any irregularity. Toward the end of the period she should not be subjected to violent movements or exertion, for such may injure the unborn pigs, and by so doing endanger her own life.

Not Knocking Cities

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

TO escape the nagging of a stepmother and the selfishness of her stepister, Daphne Haines, seventeen, and beautiful, leaves home determined to make her own living. She has a difficult time in San Francisco and nearly starves until she encounters Ralph McKevitt, family friend, wealthy and handsome, whom her half-sister, Crystal, has decided to marry for luxury and comfort, rather than love. Ralph soon wins Daphne's affection, and she is exquisitely happy until Crystal appears. Crystal uses McKevitt as a "good thing," but spends much time with a debonair Bohemian, Avery Woodward, who promises to teach her much of life and love and art. Unhappy because Ralph obviously neglects her now, Daphne moods and dreams until she reduces her efficiency to a point where she loses her position. Ill with humility and fright, she sits in the park. Suddenly she discovers Ralph driving along in a smart roadster. She hails him. He seems enthusiastic over their meeting, and she feels reassured that he still cares for her. She tells him her troubles and he promises to find her a position. Meanwhile Crystal is making more demands on Ralph's time and purse. The visit is pleasant and Allan Winters proves to be a delightful companion. They play together on the beach like a couple of carefree children.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXV.

DAPHNE thought, "I won't run after any man—not even Ralph! If he wants to go to art balls with other girls, and I like to, let him! What do I care?" And with her door locked, and her head under the covers, she had a good cry, and felt better.

Her eyes were only a little red the next morning, and long before Miss Yardley came to remind her it was lunch time she had thought of a thousand excuses for him, and stopped worrying.

Miss Yardley was a much better listener than Flora. Daphne told her the whole story over their strawberry ice cream sodas and lettuce sandwiches, and when Miss Yardley sighed and said, "Aren't you the lucky thing—having two wonderful friends like Mr. McKevitt and Mr. Winters?" she felt popular and beloved, and, oh, so sorry for poor Miss Yardley, who hadn't any men friends at all.

The more she thought about it the more she wanted Allan Winters and nice Cora Yardley who had such pretty clothes and pretty manners, and wasn't so awfully homesick once you got used to her stick-out teeth and near-sighted eyes behind the dark-rimmed glasses, to like each other.

"Mr. Winters?" Daphne's voice was a little breathless when she finally summoned courage to call Allan. "This is—Daphne."

"Yes?" He seemed so cold and business-like over the telephone that she hardly knew how to go on.

"I'm sorry that Ralph isn't in," he was saying, "I'll have him call you later."

"But it was you I wanted to talk to! I thought . . . we had such a wonderful day Sunday . . . perhaps we could . . . perhaps you'd like to . . . to come to a friend's apartment with me, and have dinner. It would be rather fun, cooking and everything. She's an awfully nice girl . . . I know Ralph is too busy right now, but I thought that maybe you—"

"I'm afraid I'm too busy too," me? You do love me a little don't you? You better! If I ever get out of this mess I'm in I'll make it up to you—honest I will!" he promised, holding her close, kissing her lowered eyelids.

And Daphne thrilling to his words forgave him for the broken engagements, the empty evenings. Forgive him for everything, for everything he did, and everything he failed to do . . . she didn't care, she'd wait . . . he wouldn't be rushed and worried forever.

"I wish I knew more about business," she thought, helplessly. "It's all over my head—all the stocks and things Ralph is fussing about, and Mr. Greely complaining . . . he oughtn't to talk to Ralph the way he does—Ralph knows what he's doing!"

Her loyalty was torn two ways . . . why couldn't they get along? But apparently they couldn't any more. Each day brought bitterness and bickering. Ralph was in and out of the office, flushed and angry, arguing with the old man. And Mr. Greely, grayer and gruffer than ever, snarled and cursed, and pounded the desk—"That damn fool here again? My Lord, am I to wet nurse him forever? Well—tell him to come in, damn it, come in!"

It was a fight about money, of course. Men were always fighting about money. "I wish there wasn't any money in the world!" she told Ralph after one of the stormy sessions. "It makes all the unhappiness there is. My father loved money so much that he let Mother kill herself with overwork, to save it, and now my stepmother is spending it, and he's killing himself with worry . . . oh, Ralph, it isn't worth it. If Mr. Greely won't let you have more capital just do without it—what does it matter? It can't be worth all the fights—"

"Pull some of that argument on Greely," he said moodily. "Make him see that he's going to drive me to drink or suicide—or worse—if he don't loosen up . . . it's so damned unfair—to think my own father would put me in this position—make me dependent upon Greely for what's rightfully mine—Mine! Well, I won't stand it much longer. I'll hire the best attorneys in this town—FI—"

"But John Greely is supposed to be the best there is—"

"Yeh—and the crookedest! . . . Another thing, he's getting childish, Daphne. I've got chances to make real money now—I'd be a millionaire in four months if I didn't have him on my neck. He'd see it if he were clearer mentally—he's getting senile—"

"Senile! Why Ralph he isn't—he's the keenest, quickest person I ever knew! He has a memory like a card index—you're wrong if you think—"

She stopped suddenly, frozen with terror. Old Mr. Greely had opened the door of his private office. He stood there, towering above them, looking at least ten feet high.

"If you have business to discuss you will discuss it with me, not my secretary, McKevitt!"

His voice was ominously quiet. He motioned Ralph to enter, with formal politeness.

The door closed behind them.

Birthday Present

Bellefontaine Man Has Call From Belgium on 78th Birthday

To wish for such a birthday present when Harry Pierce of Bellefontaine was 28, or even 58, would have been like crying for the moon. But on his 78th birthday—the telephone rang.

"Brussels calling," the operator said, and in a few moments the voice of Robert Pierce, a son, greeted his father from across the water in far-away Belgium.

"Greetings on your 78th birthday," said Robert.

A brief conversation ensued. Messages of health and happiness sped through the wires and out into the ether in both directions and even the weather was mentioned.

The transatlantic call came as a complete surprise, for the cablegram which was to inform Mr. Pierce of the call arrived after the conversation was over.

Grades in Wool

Half-blood sheep means half of one breed and half of another. Half-blood wool is the next grade coarser than fine, but is commonly considered a fine wool—that is, the fibers have smaller diameters than those of the wool, which is commonly called "medium wool."

So He Let It

No rain had fallen for nearly a year. At last a few drops of the welcome stuff came sprinkling down.

Whereupon Cuthbert, the new English land, warbled soulfully a popular song of the time. "Let it rain! Let it rain! Let the love in your heart, dear, remain."

Dad glared at Cuthbert and bawled out, "Let it rain? Well, if I catch anyone trying to stop it, I'll screw his blasted neck off!"—Sydney Bulletin.

THEATERS

INTERNATIONAL STAR

Claire Fames, who interprets one of the most original and most difficult parts ever handed to a screen player as Lady Bellmont in Rex Ingram's "The Three Passions," at the Cliftona theater Thursday has an international stage reputation. In London she duplicated her American success in "The Silver Cord," the play written by her husband, Sidney Howard, earning enthusiastic praise from the British critics.

Miss Fames had previously made a big name as a Shakespearean actress; she has played with success that most exacting of all parts, Lady Macbeth.

A director of the Theatre Guild and one of the Actors' Theatre in New York, she is recognized to be in the forefront of the new movement in the American theatre, and her realistic methods of interpretation are admirably shown in "The Three Passions," in which she is the society wife of the rough handed ship-builder millionaire, Lord Bellmont.

"ALIAS THE LONE WOLF"

Lola Wilson and Bert Lytell are starred at the Grand theater tonight in "Alias the Lone Wolf," the further adventures of the Gentleman Kaffee, the clever crook who lived within the shadow of the law, but who was too cunning for the long arm of justice to reach. F. B. O. Comedy and Universal News also will be shown.

A friendly lawsuit resulted in a ruling that the defendants are within their rights in proceeding to change the name of the said church.

To make progress in developing a balanced system of farming where live stock is to have a rightful place, it is necessary to have a sufficient area planted to first-class pasture.

The sow, while nursing, becomes all too busy on the quality of food she can do best on when she is nursing. If the sow cannot get periods of rest, she will not be able to care for her young properly. A sow should be allowed to rest for each day after the birth of her piglets, and by so doing ensure her own life.

Her new dress now seems a gigantic failure. During the journey Allan's attempt at sociability is wasted, for the girl at his side seems unconscious of his presence. Bellefontaine Man Has Call From Belgium on 78th Birthday

To wish for such a birthday present when Harry Pierce of Bellefontaine was 78, or even 58, would have been like crying for the moon. But on his 78th birthday—the telephone rang.

"Brussels calling," the operator said, and in a few moments the voice of Robert Pierce, a son, greeted his father from across the water in far-away Belgium.

"Greetings on your 78th birthday," said Robert.

A brief conversation ensued. Messages of health and happiness sped through the wires and out into the ether in both directions and even the weather was mentioned.

The transatlantic call came as a complete surprise, for the cablegram which was to inform Mr. Pierce of the call arrived after the conversation was over.

Grades in Wool
Half-blood sheep means half of one breed and half of another. Half-blood wool is the next grade coarser than fine, but is commonly considered a fine wool—that is, the fibers have smaller diameters than those of the wool, which is commonly called "medium wool."

So He Let It
No rain had fallen for nearly a year. At last a few drops of the welcome stuff came sprinkling down.

Whereupon Cuthbert, the new English hand, warbled soulfully a popular song of the time. "Let it rain! Let it rain! Let the love in your heart, dear, remain." Dad glared at Cuthbert and muttered "Let it rain? Well, if I catch anyone trying to stop it, I'll screw his blasted neck off!"—Society Bulletin.

THEATERS
INTERNATIONAL STAR
Claire Eames, who interprets one of the most original and most difficult parts ever handed to a screen player as Lady Bellmont in Rex Ingram's "The Three Passions," at the Cliftona theater Thursday has an international stage reputation. In London she duplicated her American success in "The Silver Cord," the play written by her husband, Sidney Howard, earning enthusiastic praise from the British critics.

Miss Eames had previously made a big name as a Shakespearean actress; she has played with success that most exacting of all parts, Lady Macbeth.

A director of the Theatre Guild and of the Actors' Theatre in New York, she is recognized to be in the forefront of the new movement in the American theatre, and her realistic methods of interpretation are admirably shown in "The Three Passions," in which she is the society wife of the rough handed ship-builder millionaire, Lord Bellmont.

"ALIAS THE LONE WOLF"
Lola Wilson and Bert Lytell are starred at the Grand theater tonight in "Alias the Lone Wolf," the further adventures of the Gentleman Raffles, the clever crook who lived within the shadow of the law, but who was too cunning for the long arm of justice to reach. F. B. O. Comedy and Universal News also will be shown.

Allowed to Change Name
Sophie Frances Sheppard, hequeathed $50,000 to Christ Episcopal church at Charleston, S. C., with the provision that the church change its name to "St. Peter's church." A friendly lawsuit resulted in a ruling that the defendants are within their rights in proceeding to change the name of the said church.

GREAT FILTERS OF THE BLOOD STREAM

Most Important that the Kidneys Function Properly Says Dr. Copeland, for They Dissolve and Expel Poisonous Material from the Body.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

YOU cannot imagine that a stream flowing a long distance through field and forest could do otherwise than pick up leaves and twigs, bits of plants, and all sorts of rubbish. More than this, it dissolves from the soil tiny particles of this mineral and that. It picks up traces of every soluble substance.

The blood stream does the same thing. As it flows through the body it dissolves this and that material. It takes up many elements, really waste substances, no longer of value to the tissues. Some of these are chemical agents and they may combine in the blood to form new substances.

It is not well to have the blood charged with agents which are not useful and which, indeed, may become harmful. To get rid of all such material, Nature planned the kidneys.

These organs, two in number, have an important, a vital function to perform. It is their duty to filter out of the blood this waste material.

In reality the kidney is a wonderful filter, or rather a bundle of microscopic filters. They are tiny tubes, each about an inch long to take the ashes and cinder away from the furnaces.

It is amazing how many of these little tubes there are—about four million, equally divided between the kidneys. It is said that if they were straightened out and placed end to end, they would make a pipe line fully seventy-five miles long!

Perhaps it is impossible even to approximate the quantity of solid material taken out of the body by these filters. It is estimated that in once a day or nearly a ton in a long lifetime.

Not all the material we take with our food is actually used by the body. Some of it is unsuitable and is rejected as fecal matter. More of it is made use of and, becoming worthless, is thrown into the blood stream.

You can see that the blood serves a double purpose—it carries nourishment to the body and also disposes of the wastes. A river may carry out barges to supply a great factory with fuel. Likewise, it carries away the refuse of the body, as simple as this but there is no occasion to go into a lot of detail.

The blood must be kept pure. It must be cleansed of the waste in order that it may be free to convey to the eager cells the food required for their nourishment and the energy producing substances to carry on their work.

The most important of the waste substances is known as urea. This is carried away with the urine unless something interferes with the kidney function. In that event the urea accumulates in the blood, producing the condition known as "uremia." There may be convulsions and other serious symptoms the effects of general poisoning caused by the retained urea.

You can see now how important it really is to have the kidneys work normally. So long as they do there is no trouble about having the poisons due to diseased changes properly expelled from the body.

Spacious Vessels

The total deck space of a 50,000-ton ship is equal to about eight football grounds and in the British battleship Hood it is possible to run a hundred-yard race straight away on the quarter deck.

New Ideas

Considering the struggle each new idea has to pass through, it is a wonder there is progress. Every new idea has to go through this barrage of criticism: First, it is said that the idea is "absolutely impossible." Later it is said the idea is all right, except that it will never become practicable. Finally it is said the idea has gained considerable ground, but that it will take time to develop it. About fifty years later the critic reverses himself, and says: "Years ago I said it was a great idea." The big lar! —Atchison Globe.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" Inter-nat'l Cartoon Co., N.Y.—By B. Link

By GEORGE M'MANUS

By AD CARTER

INVITATION OF SIXTIES OWNED IN THIS CITY

Social Events In Peck's Hall
70 Years Ago Are Recalled Here.

Mrs. Irwin Boggs, of the Boggs hotel, is the possessor of a genuine and ancient invitation, dated Feb. 22, 1860 to a George Washington ball given at Peck's hall. The invitation is so fancy that its message, "Grand Military ball—by it will recall to many, some of the gala events staged in the famous hall."

The invitation bears all of this message. "Grand Military ball. You are respectfully invited to attend a Grand Ball and Festival of the Pickaway Guards, at Peck's Hall, WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 22nd, 1860. COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS, Sergt. R. P. Dresbach, Sergt. Milton McCoy, Corp. L. C. Vernon, B. W. Morris, Ezra E. King W. D. McPherson."

Managers from Circleville, Capt. C. R. Mason, Lt. J. E. Taylor, Lt. J. W. Brunner, Lt. Thomas Rains, Sergt. George W. Downs, Corp. Chas. Disher, Corp. Daniel Haines, Joseph Watson, Joseph P. Smith, Isaac Ludwig, John H. Groce, A. L. Weaver. There were many others on the committee from Lancaster, Columbus and Chillicothe.

Among the floor managers the following familiar names were noted: J. C. Delano, C. N. Denney, John Steely, Bennet Frouman, C. E. Wright, D. W. Crosse and Job Renick.

"Tickets (including supper) $3. Music by G. T. Hite's Celebrated Cotillion Band."

"Military Gentlemen will appear in uniform."

It is rather difficult to picture exactly the stately and formal cotillions as danced at this affair, and it is still more difficult to imagine that the Peck Hall of today was the scene of such magnificent balls. What a turn it would give the natives if carriages started rolling up to the door on S. Court-st, and the gentlemen in full uniform and the ladies in their voluminous hoop skirts should step daintily forth, and mount the stairs to Peck's hall, once famous for miles for the affairs held there.

KINGSTON

Miss Emma Lou Leasure was a delightful hostess to her bridge club on Friday night. The guests enjoying the game were Mrs. James Leist, Mrs. Dwight Famuliner and Misses Elizabeth Orr, Margaret Cryder, Ruth Immell, Eva Buchwalter, Gwendolyn Pugh, Bernice Evans, Carrie Shepard, Elizabeth Black and Dorothy Boggs. When the scores were counted Miss Eva Buchwalter was awarded the prize for high score. Delicious home-made strawberry ice-cream and small cakes were served to the guests.

Miss Dorothy Wolfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wolfe of Jackson-twp. Pickaway-co was united in marriage to Mr. Luther List, son of Mr. and Mrs. John List, also of Jackson-twp, on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of her parents by Rev. Emil Toensmeier of the Presbyterian church on E. Mound-st of Circleville.

Miss Wolfe was beautifully dressed in white and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The guest list included Rev. and Mrs. Toensmeier, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wolfe and family, Mr. and Mrs. John List and children Wilma and Noah, Mr. and Mrs. John Steinhauer, Mr. Harry Keim, Mrs. B. F. Wolfe, Mrs. George Wright, Marvene Kiger and Miss Mary Foster, Mr. and Mrs. List will be at home after a week's motor trip through the east.

New York and San Francisco Linked by Radio New Circuit Joins World Wireless Networks

New trans-continental service provides a connecting link between America's globe-girdling radio circuits across the Atlantic, and the Pacific coast. Nation-wide domestic wireless between 30 U. S. cities planned for near future. Map shows extensiveness of American radio networks and the new cross-country circuit.

Radio spanned the American continent for the first time in commercial telegraph service when R.C.A. Communications, Inc. opened its New York-San Francisco circuit to the public on May 15th. An exchange of congratulatory messages and news pictures between high civic officials and newspapers in New York and San Francisco marked the inauguration of the new domestic radio circuit. Messages may now be sent from New York, Boston and Washington for transmission to San Francisco, and vice versa, at the same rates which apply to land wire telegraph service.

The new service includes photoradio transmission as well as messages, and is the first step in a plan for establishing a nation-wide domestic radio system, according to General James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America and R.C.A. Communications, Inc. An application on behalf of R.C.A. Communications, Inc. is now pending before the Federal Radio Commission at Washington for short wave frequencies sufficient to serve thirty cities in an inland network of radio communication. The New York-San Francisco circuit will bridge the 3,000 mile transcontinental span without a relay, utilizing an improved "projector" system. The transmitting and receiving stations represent a capital outlay of more than $500,000. The circuit has been tested under all operating conditions and weather variations for a period of two years, and in experimental operation speeds as high as 250 and 300 words a minute have been maintained.

"The opening of the new circuit is a significant step in communications development in the United States," declared General Harbord. "Business men in San Francisco may now communicate by radio to all the principal countries of Europe and South America without the necessity of utilizing 3,000 miles of a competitive wireline system."

In the central operating offices at New York and San Francisco, the radio-grams are translated into perforations on a tape typewriter; passing through a machine called the Wheatstone transmitter, the perforated tape sends dot and dash impulses along a wire to the transmitting station at Rocky Point, Long Island, where the signals are amplified and sent on their transcontinental journey by the beam projector with a directional antenna.

Travelling with the speed of light, the signals require exactly one sixty-second part of a second to complete the transcontinental journey. At its destination, the message is automatically written on a moving tape by an ink recorder, and retyped for delivery.

Stamp of Inferiority
Can't is a word that should have no place in our language. It really isn't a word, but a state of mind. And few who harbor it ever attain success. People who "can't" should get off the main highway and not block traffic.—Grit.

The Last Salute
The firing of a salute over a soldier's grave is an old English custom introduced into this country by Washington in 1777. The custom is so ancient that the original reasons for its existence are not known.

THEATRES

NEW STAK AT MET

There's good news for the lovers of actionful Western pictures in the announcement of the Metropolitan Theater to the effect that it has booked as the featured attraction at this house for Saturday and Sunday, "A Ridin' Gent," the newest Rayart-Perrin picture.

Jack has made for himself an enviable reputation. A daredevil if there ever was one, his pictures are filled to the brim with thrills and action. Furthermore, they are invariably splendidly mounted and extraordinarily well cast.

"A Ridin' Gent" is no exception. Heading Jack's supporting cast is beautiful Josephine Hill, who is well known to film fans everywhere. Little Billy Lamar has a sympathetic and mirthful role, while Al Ferguson paints a polished portrait of perfidy as the "heavy." Needless to say, Jack's two pals, Starlight, the Wonder Horse and Rex, the Movie Collie, are with him all the way, and the work they do is nothing short of marvelous.

FIRST OUTDOOR TALKIE

"In Old Arizona" is the first big outdoor disclosure of what can be done with a microphone in the open air. It presents a sort of "What Price Glory" story with Western trimmings at the Grand theater Sunday. One thing that it absolutely assures is a different sort of show than has ever been seen at any time before. For this reason "In Old Arizona" will perhaps in days to come be reckoned as epochal. The voice of Warner Baxter registers notably well. Dorothy Burgess finds herself quite acclimated to this siren role. Edmund Lowe amuses with his portrayal of a hard-boiled soldier."

Hotel in a Mountain

One of the most extraordinary hotels in the world is on the Jungfrau. It is on the shoulder just below the crest of this Swiss giant, and was excavated rather than built, as most of the structure, which has five stories, is actually within the mountain. Everything in the hotel is worked by electricity and access is gained by a tunnel from the terminal station of the Jungfrau railway.

It is an educational and research museum.

Miss Mader's home was tastefully bedecked with artistic bouquets of roses in bud and full bloom. When the congenial group of guests had arrived, the hostess distributed the bridge tallies, which were pictures of a girl with her nose buried in a newspaper. The words, "Latest News" were printed across the front of the paper. When the double tallies were unfolded, on the inside were the names of future bride and bridegroom.

After the excitement of the announcement, the twelve guests settled down to several rounds of bridge, at which Mrs. Gladys Peters, Miss Peggy Parks and Miss Elizabeth Helwagen were presented with trophies for making the three high scores. An excellent supper was served by Miss Mader at the small tables.

BRIDE-ELECT IS

HONORED AT SHOWER

One of the delightful pre-nuptial events which have been planned for Miss Mary Kathryn Hurst of Williamsport whose marriage to Mr. George Vierebome of Lancaster will be an event of June 15, was the linen shower Wednesday afternoon given for her pleasure by Mrs. Eugene Alkire at her home in Williamsport. The guests responded to the invitation at 2:30, and were charmed by the floral decorations, by which the living room had been transformed into a bower of roses. The blossoms used were the two species of rose, the Dr. Van Vleet and Silver Moon and fox glove.

The color motif of pink and white predominated, first in the flowers and then in a great cake with white frosting trimmed with pink, which was later brought before the bride-elect, Mrs. McClelland Newhouse then offered a toast to Miss Hurst, who was told to cut the cake. This she did and discovered it was filled with beautiful linen bridal gifts from the guests.

The greater part of the afternoon was occupied by the opening of the presents, and the examining and admiring of them by all of the guests. Near evening, the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Joshua McCoy, served dainty refreshments, with the frozen pink hearts in the ice cream further suggestive of the coming nuptial event.

Guests present were: Mrs. McClelland Newhouse, Mrs. Lee Luellen, Mrs. Russell McDill, Miss Laura McGhee, Mrs. Samuel Metzger, Miss Mary Radcliffe,

Miss Margaret Dunlap, Mrs. J. W. Myers, Mrs. Brance Johnson, Mrs. H. W. SINGERS PRAISED IN CHILlicothe RECITAL

The following is taken from the Chillicothe paper, and concerns the Chillicothe artists who sang Monday night in that city. Miss Mary Radcliffe, another pupil, whose name does not appear, also sang with this group in the recital on Tuesday night.

Never in the musical history of this city have so many accomplished singers of her pupils in the first of a series of two recitals in the First Presbyterian church Monday evening, amid a floral setting that vied with the colorful evening gowns worn by the women of the group.

Mrs. Maxwell's ability as a teacher of voice production and interpretation was amply demonstrated in the singing of those taking part in the brilliant recital, in which some of her most advanced pupils, as well as several of her younger pupils appeared.

Where all were so excellent, it is difficult to do justice to any one singer, but especially noteworthy was the work of out of town pupils, most of whom had studied with Mrs. Maxwell for several years. The talented group from Circleville, including Mrs. James Moffitt, Mrs. John Shelby, Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Helen Marion were accompanied on the piano by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, whose delightful playing always adds much to the beauty of the song.

Mrs. Moffitt, a favorite in this city, where her rich contralto voice has frequently been heard, demonstrated her fine range in Verdi's aria, "Stride la Vampe," from "Il Trovatore." "To the Sun," by Curran in her second group was especially beautiful, and the familiar "Ah 'tis a Dream" by Hawley was done with fine feeling.

Miss Marion's voice is a rich soprano, of a very appealing quality, which she handles with ease and distinction. Her lovely floating tones were best displayed perhaps in the quaint Russian folk song, "Mother Dearest," arranged by Schindler. Her group of four songs included a Swedish Folk song, "When I Was Seventeen," Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of the Shepherd Lehl" and "The Three Cavaliers" by Dargomyzhsky.

Mrs. Will sang very artistically "Chanson Provencale" by Dell'Aqua. In the difficult, "Ah, kuaud je dor" by Listz, Mrs. Will displayed her complete mastery of technique, and the power and beauty of her voice.

Mrs. John Shelby, who possesses a clear, musical soprano voice sang faultlessly "Blue are Her Eyes" by Watts and "Pretend" by Bleichmann, the latter number displaying her fine technique.

This she did and discovered it was filled with beautiful linen bridal gifts from the guests.

The greater part of the afternoon was occupied by the opening of the presents, and the examining and admiring of them by all of the guests. Near evening, the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Joshua McCoy, served dainty refreshments, with the frozen pink hearts in the ice cream further suggestive of the coming nuptial event.

Guests present were: Mrs. McClelland Newhouse, Mrs. Lee Luellen, Mrs. Russell McDill, Miss Laura McGhee, Mrs. Samuel Metzger, Miss Mary Radcliffe,

INVITATION OF SIXTIES OWNED IN THIS CITY

Social Events In Peck's Hall
70 Years Ago Are Recalled Here.

Mrs. Irwin Boggs, of the Boggs hotel, is the possessor of a genuine and ancient invitation, dated Feb. 22, 1860 to a George Washington ball given at Peck's hall. The invitation is so fancy that it will recall to many, some of the gala events staged in the famous hall.

The invitation bears all of this message. "Grand Military ball "You are respectfully invited to attend a Grand Ball and Festival of the Pickaway Guards, at Peck's Hall, WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 22nd, 1860. COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS, Sergt. R. P. Dresbach, Sergt. Milton McCoy, Corp. L. C. Vernon, B. W. Morris, Ezra E. King W. D. McPherson.

Managers from Circleville, Capt. C. R. Mason, Lt. J. E. Taylor, Lt. J. W. Brunner, Lt. Thomas Rains, Sergt. George W. Downs, Corp. Chas. Diaber, Corp. Daniel Haines, Joseph Watson, Joseph P. Smith, Isaac Ludwig, John H. Groce, A. L. Weaver. There were many others on the committee from Lancaster, Columbus and Chillicothe."

Among the floor managers the following familiar names were noted: C. Delano, C. N. Denny, John Steeley, Bennet Foreman, C. E. Wright, D. W. Crouse and Job Renick.

"Tickets (including supper) $3. Music by G. T. Hite's Celebrated Cotonion Band.

"Military Gentlemen will appear in uniform."

It is rather difficult to picture exactly the stately and formal cotillions as danced at this affair, and it is still more difficult to imagine that the Peck Hall of today was the scene of such magnificent balls. What a turn it would give the natives if carriages started rolling up to the door on S. Court-st, and the gentlemen in full uniform and the ladies in their voluminous hoop skirts should step daintily forth, and mount the stairs to Peck's hall, once famous for miles for the affairs held there.

New York and San Francisco Linked by Radio New Circuit Joins World Wireless Networks

New trans-Continental service provides a connecting link between America's globe-girdling radio circuits across the Atlantic, and the Pacific coast. Nation-wide domestic wireless between 30 U. S. cities planned for near future. Map shows extensiveness of American radio networks, and the new cross-country circuit

Radio spanned the American continent for the first time in commercial telegraph service when R.C.A. Communications, Inc. opened its New York-San Francisco circuit to the public on May 15th. An exchange of congratulatory messages and news pictures between high civic officials and newspapers in New York and San Francisco marked the inauguration of the new domestic radio circuit. Messages may now be sent from New York, Boston and Washington for transmission to San Francisco, and vice versa, at the same rates which apply to land wire telegraph service.

The new service includes photoradio transmission as well as messages, and is the first step in a plan for establishing a nation-wide domestic radio system, according to General James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America and R.C.A. Communications, Inc.

An application on behalf of R.C.A. Communications, Inc. is now pending before the Federal Radio Commission at Washington for short wave frequencies sufficient to serve thirty cities in an inland network of radio communication.

The New York-San Francisco circuit will bridge the 3,000 mile transcontinental span without a relay, utilizing an improved "projector" system. The transmitting and receiving stations represent a capital outlay of more than $500,000. The circuit has been tested under all operating conditions and weather variations for a period of two years, and in experimental operation speeds as high as 250 and 300 words a minute have been maintained.

"The opening of the new circuit is a significant step in communications development in the United States," declared General Harbord. "Business men in San Francisco may now communicate by radio to all the principal countries of Europe and South America without the necessity of utilizing 3,000 miles of a competitive wireline system."

In the central operating offices at New York and San Francisco, the radiograms are translated into perforations on a tape typewriter; passing through a machine called the Wheatstone transmitter, the perforated tape sends out dash impulses along a wire to the transmitting station at Rocky Point, Long Island, where the signals are amplified and sent on their transcontinental journey by the beam projector with its directional antenna.

Travelling with the speed of light, the signals require exactly one sixty-second part of a second to complete the transcontinental journey. At its destination, the message is automatically written on a moving tape by an ink recorder, and retyped for delivery.

May served sandwiches, pickles, potatoes chips and coffee. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Flo Sims on the 3rd Tuesday evening of July.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville West and Mrs. Mary Dumm of Hillsboro, O. visited a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dumm and Mr. and Mrs. David Terry.

Mr. Reed Evans and family of Columbus and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore and family of Chillicothe visited Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans and family Thursday.

Stamp of Inferiority

Can't is a word that should have no place in our language. It really isn't a word, but a state of mind. And few who harbor it ever attain success. People who "can't" should get off the main highway and not block traffic.—Grit.

The Last Salute

The firing of a salute over a soldier's grave is an old English custom introduced into this country by Washington in 1777. The custom is so ancient that the original reasons for its existence are not known.

THEATRES

NEW STAR AT MET

There's good news for the lovers of actionful Western pictures in the announcement of the Metropolitan Theater to the effect that it has booked as the featured attraction at this house for Saturday and Sunday, "A Ridin' Gent," the newest Rayart-Perrin picture.

Jack has made for himself an enviable reputation. A daredevil if there ever was one, his pictures are filled to the brim with thrills and action. Furthermore, they are invariably splendidly mounted and extraordinarily well cast.

"A Ridin' Gent" is no exception. Heading Jack's supporting cast is beautiful Josephine Hill, who is well known to film fans everywhere. Little Billy Lamar has a sympathetic and mirthful role, while Al Ferguson paints a polished portrait of peridy as the "heavy." Needless to say, Jack's two pals, Starlight, the Wonder Horse and Rex, the Movie Collie, are with him all the way, and the work they do is nothing short of marvelous.

FIRST OUTDOOR TALKIE

"In Old Arizona" is the first big outdoor disclosure of what can be done with a microphone in the open air. It presents a sort of "What Price Glory" story with Western trimmings at the Grand theater Sunday. One thing that it absolutely assures is a different sort of show than has ever been seen at any time before. For this reason "In Old Arizona" will perhaps in days to come be reckoned as epochal. The voice of Warner Baxter registers notably well. Dorothy Burgess finds herself quite acclimated to this sirenic role. Edmund Lowe amuses with his portrayal of a hard-boiled soldier."

Hotel in a Mountain

One of the most extraordinary hotels in the world is on the Jungfrau. It is on the shoulder just below the crest of this Swiss giant, and was excavated rather than built, as most of the structure, which has five stories, is actually within the mountain. Everything in the hotel is worked by electricity, and access is gained by a tunnel from the terminal station of the Jungfrau railway.

National Museum

The United States National museum is at Washington, in charge of the Smithsonian Institution. The museum is rich in the natural history, geology, paleontology, archeology and ethnology of America, and has collections of American history, including war collections, as well as many series relating to the arts and the industrial arts. It is an educational and research museum.

Air Mail Flier Claims Champion Sweet Tooth

Pilot Robert P. Hopkins, of National Air Transport, finishes off a candy bar just before he takes off from Chicago for Cleveland.

CHICAGO—Where will you find the biggest candy eaters? The answer, according to the National Confectioners' Association, is—in the air.

Professional aviators, as a class, probably eat more sweets than any other workers. The three hundred pilots employed in scheduled air transport corporations in the United States consume, it is estimated, at least five times as much candy as the same number of average individuals who stick to the ground.

The candy eating championship is claimed by Pilot Robert P. Hopkins who flies the mail and express planes of National Air Transport in the Chicago-Cleveland division of the Transcontinental Airway. Pilot Hopkins is acknowledged to have the champion sweet tooth of the N.A.T.'s staff of thirty-five pilots.

"I always take candy with me when flying from Chicago to Cleveland, or back again, on a regular mail run," said Pilot Hopkins. "Most N.A.T. pilots do the same."

"When the weather is good and the pilot hasn't much to do except keep on the course, it helps to pass time to have some small candy to nibble. Or if one is hungry, a husky candy bar tastes mighty good and tides a chap over until he lands."

WILLIAMSPORT

Mrs. Eugene D. Alkire and Mrs. McCoy were visitors at Bloomington on Thursday morning.

A number of young people enjoyed a picnic on Wednesday evening, after which they gathered at the home of Eleanor Luellen.

STOMACH VICTIM SPEAKS UP

Jeffersonville, Ohio, Man Endorses Hoyt's Compound; Calls It Wonderful.

Mr. George Farmer, R. R. No. 1, Jeffersonville, Ohio, (near Cincinnati) is now coming out with a statement praising and endorsing the Hoyt's Compound which is the great new mixture of nature's medical juices now being exper-

MR. GEORGE FARMER, who suffers every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville.

"I have suffered for more than 14 years with my stomach," said Mr. Farmer. "This condition caused me to have other ailments and I first began to suffer with indigestion and I took many different medicines to stop it but it seemed to get worse, and began to have a lot of gas on my stomach after meals. I would bloat up terribly and have severe pains over my body. At times this gas would even press up against my heart and kept me in distress for several hours. Was unable to sleep at night and grew very nervous and since I had to work hard every day I soon became rundown and weary. Finally my bowels became congested and would never act unless I took some kind of strong physic. I felt so badly that I could hardly drag around. It seemed that poison was filling up my entire system. My condition kept growing worse until finally I was persuaded to try Hoyt's Compound. I thought it would be like all the rest, but after taking it I will say to you that it really AMAZED me. My stomach now is in good condition and I can eat the things I like without suffering at all. Appetite has increased and my bowels are now regular. I never have a sign of nervousness and sleep well every night and feel like working the following morning. The poison is gone from my system and I feel better than at any time in the past fourteen years. I am glad to endorse it to other sufferers, being a wonderful remedy."

Hoyt's Compound is now being explained every day here in Circleville at Wilder's Drug Store, and is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

He Knew All About It

The teacher was reading to her class when she came across the word "eel."

"Now," she said, pausing, "will one of you tell me what an eel is?"

A very small boy put up his hand.

"Do you know?" asked the teacher in some surprise, for this particular lad was not of the most intelligent in the class.

"Yes," came the reply; "it's a frog when you get it in your 'and and you can't 'old it."

NEW...yet millions of gallons now measure SOHIO'S popularity

SCORES of millions of gallons in the first six months. Sohio Gasoline was introduced to the public on July 1, 1928. By December 31, 1928, less than six months later, millions of gallons of Sohio had been manufactured and sold.

Never before in gasoline history in the State of Ohio has such complete success been registered by any gasoline. Never before have Ohio motorists demonstrated in such convincing manner, their belief that there IS a difference in gasoline.

Sales of Sohio continue to mount. Each of our more than 700 Red-White-and-Blue Standard Service Stations throughout the state, each of the thousands of dealers scattered from Lake Erie to the River, reports an ever increasing demand for this unusual high-test motor fuel.

There can be but one answer to this remarkable success. Sohio IS a different gasoline. Find out the difference for yourself—test it in your own car. Try Sohio—and learn what thousands of other Ohio motorists have learned—that there IS a difference in gasoline.

TRY THIS NEW GASOLINE

- 1 Put it in a car that knocks
- 2 Use it in high-compression motors
- 3 Check your mileage
- 4 Test it for power on hills
- 5 Watch your oil dilution
- 6 Note its starting qualities

RED CROWN GASOLINE
We make Red Crown in the same great plants that produce Sohio, because our customers are educated to a better grade of fuel than ordinary motor gasolines such as we might buy in the open market.

Is it any wonder the average man seeking right style and good value is bewildered?

This institution thinks you want the truth ungilded rather than a bird in a gilded cage...and we frankly tell you that any suit under $20 is a mirage and a stealer of time...money.

These cabinets abound with fine suits that start at $25. And it's easy to see the difference if you'll look.

Anger in Vain Then

Man has his limitations. No matter how angry he gets, coming out of an office building, he can't slam the revolving door.—Toledo Blade.

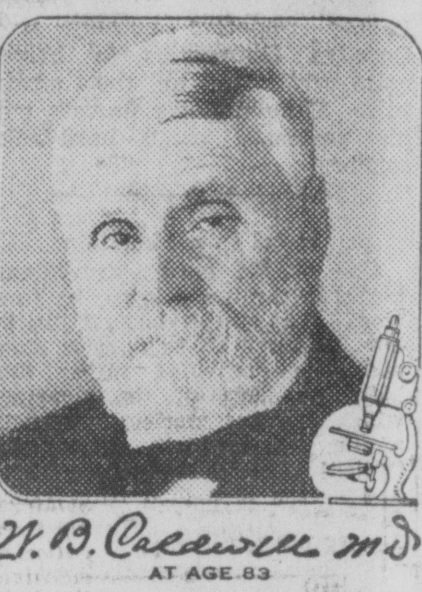

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies. It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Air Mail Flier Claims Champion Sweet Tooth

Pilot Robert P. Hopkins, of National Air Transport, finishes off a candy bar just before he takes off from Chicago for Cleveland.

CHICAGO—Where will you find the biggest candy eaters? The answer, according to the National Confectioners' Association, is—in the air.

Professional aviators, as a class, probably eat more sweets than any other workers. The three hundred pilots employed in scheduled air transport corporations in the United States consume, it is estimated, at least five times as much candy as the same number of average individuals who stick to the ground.

The candy eating championship is claimed by Pilot Robert P. Hopkins who flies the mail and express planes of National Air Transport on the Chicago-Cleveland division of the Transcontinental Airway. Pilot Hopkins is acknowledged to have the champion sweet tooth of the N.A.T.'s staff of thirty-five pilots. "I always take candy with me when flying from Chicago to Cleveland, or back again, on a regular mail run," said Pilot Hopkins. "Most N.A.T. pilots do the same. "When the weather is good and the pilot hasn't much to do except keep on the course, it helps to pass time to have some small candy to nibble. Or if one is hungry, a husky candy bar tastes mighty good and tides a chap over until he lands."

STOMACH VICTIM SPEAKS UP

Jeffersonville, Ohio, Man Endorses Hoyt's Compound: Calls It Wonderful.

Mr. George Farmer, R. R. No. 1, Jeffersonville, Ohio, (near Circleville) is now coming out with a statement praising and endorsing the Hoyt's Compound which is the great new mixture of nature's medical juices now being explained

MR. GEORGE FARMER, ed every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville.

"I have suffered for more than 14 years with my stomach," said Mr. Farmer. "This condition caused me to have other ailments and I first began to suffer with indigestion and I took many different medicines to stop it but it seemed to get worse, and began to have a lot of gas on my stomach after meals. I would bloat up terribly and have severe pains over my body. At times this gas would even press up against my heart and kept me in distress for several hours. Was unable to sleep at night and grew very nervous and since I had to work hard every day I soon became rundown and weary. Finally my bowels became congested and would never act unless I took some kind of strong physic. I felt so badly that I could hardly drag around, it seemed that poison was filling up my entire system. My condition kept growing worse until finally I was persuaded to try Hoyt's Compound. I thought it would be like all the rest, but after taking it I will say to you that it really AMAZED me. My stomach now is in good condition and I can eat the things I like without suffering at all. Appetite has increased and my bowels are now regular. I never have a sign of nervousness and sleep well every night and feel like working the following morning. The poison is gone from my system and I feel better than at any time in the past fourteen years. I am glad to endorse it to other sufferers, being a wonderful remedy."

Hoyt's Compound is now being explained every day here in Circleville at Wilder's Drug Store, and is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

He Knew All About It

The teacher was reading to her class when she came across the word "eel."

"Now," she said, pausing, "will one of you tell me what an eel is?"

A very small boy put up his hand.

"Do you know?" asked the teacher in some surprise, for this particular lad was not of the most intelligent in the class.

"Yes," came the reply; "it's a fing wot when you get it in your 'and you can't 'old it."

Pleasure and Profit in Scorpion Hunting

One of the most peculiar hunting expeditions on record is that which takes place at more or less regular intervals in the town of Maridene, in Asia Minor. The town is surrounded by ancient walls built to protect it from invaders, and hidden in various places in these walls are hordes of scorpions which often become a menace to the population. In order to keep down the number of these pests said to be death-dealing, a bonus is offered by the municipality and regular hunts are organized. The hunts take place at night when the hunters, armed with lanterns, poke around the walls and dislodge the scorpions. The next day they carry them to the town officials and collect the money due them as a reward. It frequently happens that they must wait upon the pleasure of that official, when they while away the time by making their ferocious captives engage in combat. Bets are made on the results, and it often happens that members of the waiting party have lost their money before they receive it.

Indian Braves and Squaws to "Make Whoopee" at Banff

For several days during July of each year the Stony, Cree and Blood Indians in the vicinity of Banff, Alberta, famous resort in the Canadian Rockies, are permitted to leave their reservations and ride to Banff, where they pitch their picturesque tepees in the Elk Pasture and proceed to hold carnival and "make whoopee" in a manner which would make the average night club entertainment appear tame and tameish in the extreme. These braves and their squaws hold an old-time Pow-Wow, during which they revive their tribal sports—wrestling on horseback, running races, bow and arrow contests and other tests of skill and stamina. Each day during the Pow-Wow which this year will be held July 22-27, inclusive, the Indians, gaily bedecked in eagle feathers and buckskin, parade through the streets of Banff and congregate in the courtyard of the Banff Springs Hotel, where prizes are given to the big chiefs and to the squaw who makes the best appearance on horseback. One of them won a prize several years ago with three papooses clinging to her—and a little Indian girl displaying the best costume was rewarded, also.

In front of each tepee in Elk Pasture is a lodge-pole pine, at the top of which flies the Union Jack of King-land. Moose Killer, one of the great chiefs of the Canadian Rockies, whose Christian name is Peter Wesley, is also one of the original treaty Indians who signed the peace pact with Queen Victoria more than fifty years ago. This grizzled old chieftain, who is still the proud possessor of the Treaty flag from its top, folds it reverently and puts it away, trusting that the Great Spirit will spare him to return to Banff the following year and once more unfurl his cherished emblem.

Tree Owns Itself
The Jackson oak at Athens, Ga. is referred to as the tree that owns itself. The unique deed which was recorded three-score years ago by Judge W. H. Jackson, at one time chief justice of the Georgia Supreme court, says in part: "I, W. H. Jackson, of the county of Clarke of the one part and the oak tree (here defining location) of the other part: Witnesseth, that the said W. H. Jackson for and in consideration of the great affection which he bears said tree, and his great desire to see it protected has conveyed and by these presents doth convey unto the said oak tree entire possession of itself, and of all lands within eight feet of it on all sides."

Ancient Sanitation
Ancient Rome was far better supplied with water and public bath than modern London. The ancients like us moderns combated fever by draining towns and marshes. The greatest physicians of the past among them Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine," recognized that prevention is better than cure. They anticipated the teachings of the New Health society, and we can learn a great deal by studying their writings.

Aqueducts of Old Rome
Ancient Rome has a system of aqueducts; some with several channels one above another, and some of them are still in use. The water in them flowed entirely by gravity.

Mrs. Freda Goeller is taking a rest prescribed by her physician, and is spending several weeks at Martinsville, Ind.

The "lucky bag" aboard a man-of-war is a place where the ship's police petty officer stows effects for safe keeping that are found adrift about the ship.
